October 27, 2022 – The Public Theater (Oskar Eustis, Artistic Director and Patrick Willingham, Executive Director) began previews for the world premiere of PLAYS FOR THE PLAGUE YEAR on Friday, November 4. The theatrical concert, written by and featuring Pulitzer Prize winner and Public Theater Writer-in-Residence Suzan-Lori Parks and directed by Bessie Award winner Niegel Smith, is performed in Joe's Pub for a limited three-week engagement through Sunday, November 27. PLAYS FOR THE PLAGUE YEAR officially opens on Wednesday, November 16.

On March 13, 2020, as theaters shut their doors and so many of us went into lockdown, Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright and The Public's Writer-in-Residence Suzan-Lori Parks picked up her pen and her guitar and set out to write a play every day. What emerged is a breathtaking anthology of plays and songs that chronicle our collective experience and the hope and perseverance that occurred throughout that troubling year. Performed in the intimate music venue, Joe's Pub, PLAYS FOR THE PLAGUE YEAR is a theatrical concert featuring the music and plays of Suzan-Lori Parks, and is both a personal story of one family's daily lives, as well as a sweeping account of all we faced as a city, a nation, and a global community. Niegel Smith directs this life-affirming new work that beams with humor and humanity, bears witness to what we've experienced, and offers inspiration as we shape our future.

"When I started writing the project on Day One, I wanted to create something that we could experience together, whenever it was safe for us to be physically together again," said playwright, performer, and Public Theater Writer-in-Residence Suzan-Lori Parks. "While I could have just written down my thoughts in a journal, I decided to write plays instead, because plays are meant to be done with others, in the company of friends and strangers—and, for me, plays, and the resulting act of theater-making, celebrate our humanity and demonstrate the process of community. During lockdown I felt like we all longed for that. And I also wrote songs to accompany the plays, because singing with others creates magic. These plays and songs are meant to give us all the tools we need to process both what we've been through and what we're still going through now.”

The complete cast of PLAYS FOR THE PLAGUE YEAR includes Edward Astor Chin (Understudy), Leland Fowler (Actor 2), Danyel Fulton (Understudy), Greg Keller (Actor 1), Orville Mendoza (Actor 5), Kenita Miller (Actor 3), Lauren Molina (Actor 6), Suzan-Lori Parks (The Writer), Martín Solá (Actor 7), Will Stone (Understudy), and Pearl Sun (Actor 4).

“As we were emerging from lockdown, Suzan-Lori approached me to guide the conception and development of this epic project. True-to-form, she had set her pen, typewriter, and computer to task each day to write plays and songs that capture our collective experience in all its complexity and nuance—from the ways we cling to loved ones to moments of communal rage and joy,” said PLAYS FOR THE PLAGUE YEAR director Niegel Smith. “They are as expansive as our society, incorporating a multiethnic, super talented company of actors, singers, and musicians. She has dared to make a work that brings us closer in our humanity by looking deeply at our recent past and offering us visions of hope and resilience.”

The production features scenic and projection design by Peter Nigrini, costume design by Rodrigo Muñoz, lighting design by Ania Washington, sound design by Dan Moses Schrier, and prop management by Alexander Wylie. Ric Molina serves as music director and has contributed to both vocal and instrumental arrangements for the production. Buzz Cohen serves as the production stage manager and Janelle Caso will serve as stage manager.

Suzan-Lori Parks is a longtime Public Theater artist, having served as Writer-in-Residence since 2008. Her world premieres at The Public include White Noise (2019); Father Comes Home from the Wars (Parts 1, 2 & 3) (2014); The Book of Grace (2010); Fucking A (2003); the Pulitzer Prize-winning Topdog/Underdog (2001); Venus (1996); and The America Play (1994). Parks' upcoming musical The Harder They Come will premiere in spring 2023.

Over the course of her career, Suzan-Lori Parks has creatively innovated the play-a-day format, writing several collections of plays daily over different time periods. Her anthology 365 Days/365 Plays premiered at The Public in 2006 and featured a play written every day between November 13, 2002 to November 13, 2003. Suzan-Lori Parks is also the writer of 100 Plays for the First Hundred Days (2018), which chronicles the first 100 days of Donald Trump's presidency through play diaries.

In addition to PLAYS FOR THE PLAGUE YEAR, The Public's 55th anniversary season at Astor Place includes Lorraine Hansberry's A RAISIN IN THE SUN currently running in the Newman Theater. Directed by Robert O'Hara, the production marks the legendary playwright's Public Theater debut and only the second time that this classic has been produced Off-Broadway. This month, WHERE WE BELONG begins in the LuEsther Hall—an intimate and exhilarating solo piece written and performed by Madeline Sayet and directed by Mei Ann Teo, co-produced with Woolly Mammoth Theatre Company in association with Folger Shakespeare Library. Sayet's story is a celebration of the indigenous community and an in-depth exploration of colonialism that asks us what it means to belong in an increasingly globalized world. Beginning January 4, join us for the 18th annual UNDER THE RADAR FESTIVAL. The full festival line-up will be announced at a later date.

In keeping with guidance from city, state, and federal officials, proof of vaccination against COVID-19 and the use of face masks are no longer required in Joe's Pub, the venue that PLAYS FOR THE PLAGUE YEAR will be presented and where food and drink will be available for purchase throughout the performance. Patrons are strongly encouraged to wear a mask when not actively eating or drinking. In all other performance spaces at The Public, masks are strongly encouraged except on all Tuesday evening performances and Saturday and Sunday matinees when a face mask will be required for everyone. For complete health and safety protocols, visit Safe At The Public.
